What's My Job?

Sponsored by Game of Actual Life

Overview: A quick-fire guessing game for groups of three or more.

Time: 5-10 minutes

Equipment required: A dry wipe board or pieces of paper and pens.

Benefits:

- Improves children's understanding of various types of jobs available.
- Helps children think outside the box when considering future careers.
- Leads to an improved appreciation of a wide range of jobs.

Setting Up The Game:

1. Have a range of jobs written on separate cards, big enough for the class to read.
2. Call for a volunteer to stand, facing the other players
3. Hold one of the job cards behind their head, so they can't see.
4. The child will try to guess their job based on the three clues given by the other players.
5. Once they guess correctly, swap over and use a different job for the next child to guess.

The Clues:

1. Ask the others to identify three key skills needed to do this job well.
2. Ask them how much they think somebody with this job gets paid a year.
3. Finally, ask a them to explain why this job is beneficial. They can start with the sentence "This job is important to society because..."
